

SAN VITO LO CAPO

White Sand and Clear Blue Waters

Located in the Province of Trapani on Sicily's northwestern coast, this small beach town is known for its pure white sand and clear blue waters. This town is nestled at the base of Mount Monaco, which is a popular spot for climbers. San Vito Lo Capo has something for everyone, whether you're looking for a relaxing weekend of sun bathing, sailing, and exploring the town, or a more adventurous weekend of hiking and water activities.

Points of Interest:

Mount Monaco

This beautiful structure overlooking San Vito Lo Capo is one of the most famous rocks for climbing in Sicily. Mount Monaco offers multiple historical hiking trails suitable for a range of ages and degrees of expertise, as well as some more difficult sport climbing routes.

Zingaro Nature Reserve

Established in 1981 as the first protected area in Sicily, Zingaro is a great way to hike while enjoying panoramic views over the sea. During your hike, feel free to stop for a swim break in the beautiful coves along the way.

Spiaggia San Vito

Among one of the more popular beaches, this beach is located in perfect view of Mount Monaco. Covered by the pure white sand San Vito Lo Capo is known for, this beach is easily accessible to its visitors and offers lidos with chairs and umbrellas for those looking to spend the day relaxing.

Parking:

There are free and paid parking options in San Vito Lo Capo. In the summertime, however, parking in this beach town can certainly be tricky. Visitors can park at the port and walk about 5 minutes to the town centre.

Alternatively, visitors can utilize paid parking in the town centre, which is € 5/day. Street parking is also an option, but spots are definitely at a premium in the summertime.
